

I believe that the proposed rule is an excellent way of carrying our nations aviation industry into the future. Technology had given us the ability to advance the nations commercial fleets which should and could help resolve air traffic problems of today. With a well managed system, aviation should see a whole new world open and a new market evolve.